

FINAL DAY TO PAY INCOME TAX

Collectors Working Day and Night Handling Delayed
Payments of Corporations.

PENALTY AFTER JULY 10

Fraudulent Returns and Outright Tax Dodgers Being Investigated by Officials.

Washington, June 29.—Tomorrow is the final day for the payment of income tax assessments and internal revenue collectors throughout the United States are working day and night now handling the payments of corporations and individuals who have waited almost until the last moment in order to hold on to their money as long as possible.

On July 10 a penalty of 5 per cent will attach to each of the unpaid assessments and for every additional month of delay the penalty will be one per cent. This penalty cannot be waived by the secretary of the treasury nor by any treasury department official and will be imposed in all cases excepting upon the estates of insane, deceased or insolvent persons.

Probing Fraudulent Returns.
For the present the commissioner of internal revenue is giving no attention to fraudulent returns, although much information is reaching the department every day concerning persons who are trying to dodge the income tax. Through anonymous letters and other strange sources tips are received concerning the income of persons who have failed to make returns or have made inadequate returns. As soon as the receipts from honest returns have been disposed of the commissioner and his assistants will begin their investigation of the dodgers. Beginning about August 1 in every community an investigation will be made of the incomes of all persons who are supposed to fall within the provisions of the law.

Scores of Dodgers.
One letter received by the commissioner of internal revenue a few days ago gave a detailed statement of a real estate transaction in which three persons earned enormous profits. None of the three men has made an income tax return. The return of a prominent corporation lawyer in an eastern city failed to list retainer fees from a number of corporations whose statements to the treasury department show the attorney is in their employ and regularly on their salary list. These cases are typical of scores that will be given attention when the time comes.

MANY CASES OF LEAD POISONING

Five Out of Every Hundred in United States—Great Britain Has 1.8 Per Hundred.

Washington, June 29.—While many changes and improvements have occurred in the lead smelting industry in the United States in the last twenty years, much remains to be accomplished, especially in preventing the escape of poisonous dust and fumes. This is brought out in a report today by the bureau of labor statistics on "Lead Poisoning in the Smelting and Refining of Lead." Among the changes and improvements noted are better mechanical equipment in plants, better constructed buildings, greater freedom from dust and fumes and a higher degree of interest among employers in the health and safety of employees.

Lead Poisoning Cases.
In the nineteen plants inspected, employing about 7400 men at least, 1769 cases of lead occurred in 1912. "Considering only those reported through medical sources," says the report, "this means that there were more than 22 cases for every 100 employees and the hospital records alone, which covered only nine plants revealed a rate of almost five cases of lead poisoning per 100, a larger rate than that of Great Britain."

The report shows that in Great Britain there were in 1912 only 37 cases of lead poisoning among 2009 men engaged in lead smelting or 1.8 per hundred. In Germany and Austria conditions are said to be less favorable, although as a result of governmental regulation there has been marked improvement in the industry in recent years.

IRISH MAID IS A PHOTOPLAY STAR

Irene Boyle.

"One hundred and ten pounds of energy and enthusiasm," is the way a newspaper man recently described Irene Boyle, a leading lady in the movies. Continuing, he spoke of her as:

"A superbly proportioned little lady, who barely reaches the five-foot-two mark. A strikingly attractive face with a deliciously tilted nose that is as Irish as the big, blue eyes above it. The eyes are deserving of special mention. They have the trick of gazing steadily at the speaker, conveying the impression of fearlessness. The whole topped by a glorious mass of jet black hair."

COURT OF CLAIMS HAS MANY CASES

Washington, June 29.—The court of claims has adjourned for the summer after clearing the docket of all cases ready for argument. During the interim 7340 cases were disposed of. Of these 6448 were dismissed on the government motion because of failure to prosecute on the part of claimants. The remaining 982 were contested cases.

It has been necessary in the past year to review several hundred thousand pages of testimony. The most important cases determined are what are termed "discovery" cases in which 720 railroads claiming extra pay amounting approximately to $35,000,000 for carrying the mails since 1907.

CHINESE AND ROCKS AT GOLD CREEK, NEV.

A vault of solid masonry, still in good condition, standing on the hillside like a monument, and two elderly Chinese men are nearly all that remains of the mining camp at Gold Creek, Nev., according to Q. R. Craft, fiscal agent of the Fourth forestry district, who is now on an inspection trip to several forest headquarters in Nevada. It is a poor showing, comments the forestry official, considering that forty years ago thousands of dollars worth of gold was placed mined in this very spot.

There are still a few old ditches, extensive shallow excavations, evidently the result of water artificially applied, according to Mr. Craft, but the two old Chinese, known locally as Lem and Joe, are about the only living evidence of the once prosperous camp. A few prospectors still spend the summers there, and Lem, whose right name is Hong Lee, conducts a little store in connection with his mining operations. Although he is 80 years old, the forestry official found that his account books which he keeps in Chinese, are models of neatness.

Fifteen years ago, Mr. Craft reports an effort was made to obtain gold from the presumed mother lode at Gold Creek. A mine was opened and a mill erected. The camp contained, including the workmen on the improvements 2000 people, but the quartz mining has not as yet proved profitable. J. R. Hardman is principal citizen of the real town of Gold Creek. He owns the townsite, runs the post office, store and hotel.

Mr. Craft expects to visit the headquarters of the Ruby and Humboldt national forests in Nevada before returning to Ogden.

Most Fatal Explosion.
The most fatal explosion ever known was at Gravelines in 1654. Three thousand people were killed.
